A LEGEND.—By WM. C. BRYANT

Upon a rock that high and sheer Rose from the mountain's breast,
A weary hunter of the deer
Had sat him down to rest.
And bared, to the soft summer air,
His hot red brow and sweaty hair.

All dim in haze the mountains lay,
With dimer vales between,
And rivers glistened on their way
By forests, faintly seen;
While ever rose a murmuring sound
From brooks below and bees around.

He listened, till he seemed to hear
A voice so soft and low,
That whether in the mind or ear,
The listener scarce might know;
With such a tone, so sweet and mild,
That watching woman lulls her child.

"Thou weary huntsman," thus it said,
"Thou faint with toil and heat!
The pleasant land of rest is spread
Before thy very feet.
And those whom thou wouldst gladly see
Are waiting there to welcome thee."

He looked, and twist the earth and sky,
Amidst the noonday haze,
A shadowy region met his eye,
And grew beneath his gaze;
As if the vapours of the air
Had gathered into shapely forms.

Groves freshened as he looked, and flowers
Showed bright on rocky bank,
And fountains welled beneath the bowers,
Where deer and pleasant drank;
He saw the glittering streams; he heard
The rustling bough, the twittering bird.

And friends—the dead—in his boyhood dear,
There lived, and walked again;
And there was one who many a year
Within her grave had lain,
A fair young girl, the region's pride—
His heart was breaking when she died.

Booming, as was her wont, she came Right toward his resting-place,
And stretched her hand and called his name,
With sweet and smiling face.
Forward, with fixed and eager eyes,
The hunter leaped, in act to rise.

Forward he leaped, and heading down
Plunged from that craggy wall,
He saw the rocks, steep, stern and brown,
An instant in his fall.
A fearful instant and no more—
The dream and life are now o'er.

ADVICE TO UNMARRIED LADIES.

FOUND AMONGST SOME MSS. OF A LATE DOWAGER.
If you have blue eyes—laughish.
If black eyes—leer.
If you have a pretty face—wear short neckties.
If you are in the least doubtful as to that point—
let them be rather long.
If you have good teeth—don't forget to laugh now and then.
If you have bad ones—you must only smiler.
While you are young—sit with your face to the light.
While you are a little advanced—sit with your back to the window.
If you have a bad voice—always speak in a low tone.

If it is acknowledged that you have a fine voice—
never speak in a high one.
If you dance well—dance but seldom.
If you dance ill—never dance at all.
If you sing well—make no previous excuses.
If you sing indifferently—hesitate not a moment when you are asked; for few persons are competent judges of singing, but every one is sensible of a desire to please.

If in conversation you think a person wrong—rather hint a difference of opinion than offer a contradiction.
If you find a person telling an absolute falsehood—let it pass over in silence; it is not worth your while to make any one your enemy, by proving him a liar.

It is always in your power to make a friend by smiles
—what a folly to make enemies by frowns!
When you have an opportunity to promise—do it with all your heart.

When you are forced to blame—appear, at least, to do it with reluctance.
If you are envious of another woman—never show it but by allowing her every good quality and perfection except those she really possesses.

If you wish to let the world know you are in love with a particular man—treat him with formality and dis-every one else with ease and freedom.
If you are disposed to be petulant or insolent—it is better to exercise your ill humors on your dog, your cat, or your servant, than your friends.

If you would preserve beauty—rise early.
If you would preserve esteem—be gentle.
If you would obtain power—be condescending.
If you would live happy—endeavor to promote the happiness of others.

CURIOUS ADVENTURE—FITZGERALD'S ESCAPE.—
Fitzgerald one of the robbers of the Savannah Bank made his escape on Friday night last from the Georgia Messenger at Arms who had received him from the authorities here. As it is a curious affair, we will give a full account of the facts.

In pursuance of the requisition of the Governor of Georgia to the Governor of New York, Mr. Williams the Georgia officer took possession of his prisoner on Friday morning. A carriage drove up at eleven o'clock to the jail door. Young Hays, the New York Viduoq, handed Fitzgerald over to Mr. Williams the Georgia officer. Fitzgerald cast his eyes around him on the Viduoq. Fitzgerald mounted the steps and took his seat—trees, fogged, mounted the steps and took his seat—
The two officers took their seats also in the carriage, and then drove down to the wharf, where the packet Empress lay. Fitzgerald was put on board—and his birth assigned him, and every thing prepared.

"Now Mr. Williams," said young Hays, "keep a sharp eye on your prisoner. He's not a row fellow."
"A sharp eye?" said Williams "see if I don't. He shall sleep in one berth and I in the next—besides the Captain, mate and all are to keep an eye in that direction too."

Well, in the course of the day, the Empress hauled out in the stream, but did not go to sea in consequence of the want of a few seamen who had not got off of all and their money. The weather was thick and hazy—and towards night it began to rain. Fitzgerald was in good spirits—as was Williams the officer. They took dinner and tea aboard. Every thing was snug. Towards 12 o'clock Fitzgerald said "I feel sleepy—where am I to sleep, officer?"

"Here," said Williams "in this berth—I take the one beneath you, and your curtains must come under my bed clothes."

"Oh! very well," said Fitz drily.
Fitz went to bed—and Williams followed—taking care to listen the curtains over Fitzgerald and put down the ends under his own bed clothes. About one o'clock Williams looked—Fitzgerald was safe enough. Williams then fell into a soft, sweet slumber which lasted till 3 o'clock. On waking at that hour he put forth his hand to see if his prisoner was safe, and to his astonishment Fitzgerald was not there. He immediately started—raised a hue and cry—looked in every corner and only found his hat and boots remaining. Where was Fitzgerald? What could have become of him?

At the peep of dawn Williams came ashore—walked up to young Hays—says he "Hays, Fitzgerald has escaped." "Escaped?" said Hays rubbing his eyes—
"Have you looked through the ship?"

"Oh yes, I have looked in every conspicuous place."
"Conspicuous place!—he would not hide in a conspicuous place. Did you look in every secret hole and corner?"

"I don't know but I'll try again."
Hays then got up—dressed—went off—scoured the city. "Who are you after so early?" asked a knowing
one. "Oh nothing," says Hays looking quite unconcerned
—"but a crazy man who has left his best friends"
—"Oh that's all."

Fitzgerald up to yesterday morning had not been found. It is supposed by some that he jumped into the river and swam ashore. But the stormy night and the current in that part of the East River induces many to believe that he may have been drowned. Poor Williams! the Georgia officer is in the dumps. "What can you expect from a mere Georgia cracker?" say the New York Police officers. "For my part," says young Hays "when I take a prisoner on his travels we always go in handcuffs. When I go to bed my prisoner goes always with me—both hand-cuffed under the same blanket. When I mount the stage box for the benefit of the landscape, my prisoner and I take a comfortable seat together in handcuffs. I never trust to curtains and cobwebs. Old Hays never did—neither does the young one. Handcuffs are your only article." So say we too.—N. Y. Herald.

TO THE APPLICANT.—DR. T. BELL, at No. 45, South Russell street, corner of My street, tenders his service to the public. Having been forty years in the practice of physic both in Europe and America, he flatters himself of being able to give general satisfaction. For the last fifteen years he has adopted the vegetable medicine system—the advantages of this system need no further every other of sufficiently tested in every section of the Union. He will undertake the following disorders where there is a prospect of cure, viz: cancers—asthma—coughs of ever so long standing—scrofula—ulcers from whatever cause, &c. Also—liver complaints—piles —worms—jaundice, and Dysentery.

N. B.—Also, a certain complaint, (in most cases without the use of mercury.) Mrs. B. will attend to the Female Department, having had sufficient experience in the diseases usual to that sex, to warrant the fullest confidence—separate rooms provided, and at the same time may rely upon secrecy and honor.

DR. A. ANDREW, Office No. 4, North Square, attends to the cure of Cancer, Scrofula, Herpes, old and new Ulcers, and certain diseases in their various stages. Good references can be given if required.

N. B. There is one person in this city, who has been cured by me, that now pretends that he has obtained the art of performing the above cure of me, it is false, he is an impostor, and knows not the use of Medicine. Beware of impostors.

TO THE PUBLIC.—THOMSONIAN INFIRMARY.—
At No. 24 Harvard street. (Harvard street between Cornhill and Front street, and opposite No. 499 Washington street Boston.)

The Proprietor of this Infirmary would respectfully announce to his friends and the community at large, that he has succeeded Dr. Andrew Watkins in the foregoing and well known popular establishment. And he would now make his grateful acknowledgments for the patronage he has already received during the short time he has been there, and would assure the continuance of the same from the numerous frequenters of this institution.

Long experience in the theory and practice of the Botanic System of Medicine has rendered him perfectly familiar with the administration of these remedies, and has enabled him to succeed in many cases which were extremely doubtful and dangerous, enables him with confidence to assert, that they are both safe and powerful in their operation on the human frame, and will, beyond all dispute, expel all maladies which have their origin in the human system, (as millions of the people of the United States can testify) provided application be made in season. The Infirmary will be conducted on pure Thomsonian principles, and under the patronage and direction of Dr. Samuel Thomson, the venerable founder of the system, who, when in the city, makes this establishment his home.

Dr. James Howarth, of the firm of Messrs Howarth & Co., who is one of the general agents of Dr. Thomson for this part of the country, also resides at the Infirmary, and will render aid and assistance when necessary in cases of difficulty.

The experience this gentleman has had in administering Thomsonian Medicine to the sick has rendered him perfectly conversant with the Botanic System of Practice. It is unnecessary to detail, in an advertisement, his qualifications, being well known in Andover and Boston and many other places in New-England. The public are already acquainted with them. It may be added, however, that he is a thorough Thomsonian, and a perfect disciplinarian both in his theory and practice.

The establishment has, since it has been so long inquired for the former occupant, been actually refitted, and will now afford every convenience for the comfort of invalids. It is pleasantly and eligibly situated in a central and retired part of the city; and is free from the noise and bustle which is always very offensive and injurious to the sick, and the experienced nurses will likewise afford their untiring attendance on the sick. Pure Thomsonian medicine, together with Family Rights, Robinson's Lecture, and all other books relating to the system, constantly for sale at the Infirmary and moderate terms.

WILLIAM CLARK, Botanic Physician,
And Agent for Doct. SAMUEL THOMSON.

STORES, HALL & CELLAR IN BROM-FIELD STREET TO BE LET.—2 Stores in front of the Meeting House—they are large and very convenient, measuring about 35 feet by 30—with high dry cellars adapted to each.

Also—A Cellar, 60 feet by 43—light and dry—well adapted for the storage of goods.

Also—a small front Cellar—suitable for the sale of fruit or a hair dressing room.

Also—A Hall, 60 feet by 29—with a small room attached to it, about 23 feet by 16—they are very light and easy of access.
The above are situated in the centre of the city, and are well adapted for many purposes—they will be let at a reasonable rate, and fitted up to suit the tenants—for particulars, inquire of JOHN TEMPLETON.

JOHN E. BROWN, VETERINARY SURGEON, respectfully informs the public, that he will keep a stable at Mr. Foster's Stable, Devonshire st. Mr. Hodge's stable, Milk st, where he may be found every morning from 9 to 10 o'clock. ept1w-eoly*

BOLTON FLAG-STONE COMPANY.—THE BOL-TON FLAG-STONE COMPANY having found great encouragement for the sale of their Flagging in this city, are induced to establish a new office in the City, between the City Hall and Warren Bridge, where they will have ready for sale a good stock of the best quality and of various sizes and colors. The agent intends keeping experienced workmen, in the yard, that he may be enabled to execute any orders for Flagging in this city and the neighboring towns. All orders will be executed in a workmanlike manner, and on the most reasonable terms.

Those who are in the building line are particularly invited to call—and are assured that no exertions will be spared to give satisfaction, and that the most diligent attention will be paid to their orders.

M. KAVANAGH, Agent.

BAKING ESTABLISHMENT.—No 122 Courtstreet, (the old site of the firm of Winsor & Hewes) respectfully informs his friends and the public, that he has taken the above establishment, formerly occupied by Mrs. S.
B. Burnham, where he intends carrying on the BAKING business in all its various branches.

The undersigned would take this opportunity to return thanks to his old patrons for their liberal favors; and to express his regret that any untoward circumstances should have prevented for a time his supplying them with bread manufactured under his own supervision. He would assure them, however, that he is now prepared to answer all their calls, and to furnish them with bread of every kind, of the very first order. His French Rolls, in particular, which have given so much satisfaction heretofore, will be found equal to the best, and his excellent bread, which he would assure them, he will continue to supply, will be found equal to the best, and his

Votes for Senators in this City, on Monday:—

John Henshaw,	1579	Winslow Lewis,	374
Charles G. Green,	2022

Mr. Jones, who has been so small for his labors at the Senatorial Board, thus speaks in behalf of his late "iron" colleagues:—

"The responsibility sustained by each member of the Senate, as compared with that resting on each member of the other branch of our legislature, is as 40 to upwards of 600, or as 1 to 16. And so with the duties imposed upon him: for the same amount of business passes through both houses, within the same quantity of time. Consequently, on the average, as much labor is required of one member of the former branch, as of sixteen of the latter. This statement, of course, is founded on the constitutionally supposed equality of those members respectively. Now under this state of things, is there any thing like justice or reason in placing their pay upon the same level—of giving aid to Senators and Representatives the miserable pittance of two dollars per diem—of making no other difference than that of bestowing upon the one the right of prefixing to his cognomen the title, HON., and upon the other, the privilege of appending thereto that of ESQ?"

We are glad that the "iron" gentleman from Nantucket has spoken just at this moment, as it has determined us not to take a seat in the next Senate—therefore, the City Authorities are excused from furnishing us with a certificate of election—we are sorry to disappoint our fellow citizens, but we positively cannot serve. To fill the vacancy thus suddenly and unexpectedly occasioned, we recommend our friend of the Atlas, a member of the lower branch—it will do him no harm to be raised a little in the world.

Caldwell swings wide in the West—he has bought a lot of land in Louisville, 105 feet front by 210, upon which he proposes to erect a splendid new theatre, arcade, baths, ball-room, &c.—capital $50,000—shares $100 each, to be paid as directed after the organization of the company. The plan of the Theatre to be after that of the New American Theatre, now erecting in New Orleans, 60 feet front, running back 140.—There will be to each box in the lower tier a boulevard or retiring room, ten feet by twelve. The front will be a Corinthian colonnade. The ladies' baths will front on Market street, and those for the gentlemen will be situated in the rear of the theatre, with an entrance on the west side of the lot. The ball-room, supper chamber, and parlors to be over the arcade and baths. Connected with the theatre will be a cigar-drawing or restaurant. The baths to be built of marble and tin.

The London Quarterly Review, in comparing Lafayette with Washington, says—"He had the moderation of Washington without his wisdom; his simplicity but not his strength; his amiability disjoined from his activity and foresight. He was, therefore, always respected—and always forgotten."

The Review prefers an hereditary peerage to an elective one, because the hereditary Peer does not possess the talents that raised his ancestor, and because a peerage of all unbecoming talent would be dangerous to any monarchy!

New York has gone for the administration by a increased vote. In what was formerly the infected district, where Seward had a majority of 10,138 last year, the democratic candidate is elected to Congress.

"The Times."—We find, under this head, in the last Knickerbocker, an excellent article upon the excesses which have taken place in different parts of the country, within the last six months. To a considerate man, these excesses must be matter of deep reflection, and to every individual in the community, they should be a subject of interest, inasmuch as their general prevalence, will not only endanger, but absolutely destroy, the tenure by which we hold our rights, religious, civil and political:—

"The law is both helm and anchor to the State. Let go this, and you are at the mercy of wind and wave. Every one, therefore, who is embarked in this common exposure, must be taught to hold the law in proper estimation. The citizen must respect it, from the day he leaves his mother's arms, to the hour when he lies down in death. He must observe its requisitions, and uphold its supremacy. This is a practical truth—in every sense, and under every view of the subject, practical. The law is not an abstraction—it is an actual and comprehensible thing. It is, as far as it goes, the rule of right,—and its sanctity must not be invaded. The rich and the poor must alike pay it homage. The innocent and the guilty must alike be permitted and compelled to prove its majesty. The substitution of force for law is the epoch of revolution. It snaps asunder the bonds of society,—it restores to every one the rights which he had tacitly relinquished, while it strips him of the advantages by which he had been a thousand-fold repaid, and says to him: 'Defend thyself,—let thy hand be against every man, for every man's hand will be against thee.' Horrible condition! Oh, let the good sense and wise foresight of the people save our country, in all its cities and villages, within its ancient borders and through its widest settlements, from such a catastrophe! The law must be respected. Let this be the American sentiment. Let it infuse its spirit into the pulsation of every heart. Illegal measures, for whatever purposes, must not be thought of. Be the occasion ever so urgent, or the grievance ever so oppressive, the resort must be to the law, and to nothing else. Complain of the law's delay, or its injustice, as any may, submit to its restraints, and observe its forms, all must, unless where one can plead conscientious difficulties. Then the individual appeals from the legislation of earth to the Law-giver in heaven, and prefers to endure the consequences of disobedience to the former, that he may retain the favor of the latter. Such a case is altogether peculiar; but even here the law must be enforced, while the sufferer anticipates his compensation in another world. For if we would enjoy the blessings of civilization, we must live in subjection to the law. It matters not what be the excuse, nor who the perpetrators. They who take justice into their own hands, in despite of legal impediments, take guilt upon their souls, and should be accounted dangerous citizens, from a participation in whose acts every good man should shrink as from the breath of pestilence."

Messrs Jones, Lows and Ball, have opened a Jewellery store in Washington street, which is by far the most magnificent establishment of the kind in the United States. The sparkling diamonds, glowing rubies, the clear amethyst, and all earth's richest treasures which fill their cases, are enough to blind and bewilder the beholder. It seems more like some fairy scene of enchantment than reality. Their establishment is an ornament to the city—they are young enterprising merchants, and we hope their exertions will be well rewarded.

The New York Star, in speaking of the benefit they are getting up at the Bowers Theatre for Gates, says, "the next complimentary benefit should be for an unobtrusive person, of immense merit in her line—Mrs Duff. She wants it and deserves it." Bostonians, and all liberal management, vide Finn's Card, and no doubt it could be had upon good terms for the purpose.

The Loco Focos, finding the party inconveniently large, were for proscribing, first, all government officers—second, every body in any manner connected with a bank—third, all lawyers, and so on and so on, until they narrowed their party to those only who were unfit to hold office, too dishonest to be trusted in a bank, and too stupid to read law.

Anybody, who wants to pass a dozen hours in pleasant reading, can be gratified by devoting that time to a perusal of a couple of volumes entitled "Light Reminiscences" of the Rhine, Switzerland, and a Corner of Italy, lately published by Carey & Co., and for sale by Ticknor.

Mr Bancroft will not thank the Loco Focos for the unjustifiable use they made of his name upon election day, in dragging it over after them to the Abolitionists, and placing it upon their ticket in company with WILLIAM LLOYD GARRISON'S!

A polite intimation of falsehood.—The Washington Telegraph says—"We are loth to believe that the Atlas knows that there is no foundation for what it says, and it is difficult to imagine that it can think as it professes to do."

A Frenchman has invented an umbrella called an omnibus, which is described to be of the ordinary dimensions, very light, and "by means of a spring may be extended at pleasure, so as to place under cover two, four, or six persons at once."

Not long since General Harrison returned to the city of Cincinnati from a visit down the river. It was before the election, and his fate depending on the result, no clap trap or stage trick could be dispensed with. It was therefore resolved, if possible, 'to get up a scene' at his landing; but as the boat approached the shore it was observed that, with the exception of the usual loungers, none were present to witness the debarkation. Fertile in expedients, the friends of Harrison in the boat caused her to ply up and down before the town, while those on shore employed a bellman to run to and fro on the bank, ringing with all his vigor, and announcing the important news as follows:—

"All those as wants to see General Harrison, (jingle, jingle,) who is aboard of that boat, will go to the landing. (Jingle, jingle.) Old North Bend, (jingle,) the hero of Tippecanoe, (jingle, jingle,) is aroove!" (Jingle, jingle, jingle.)

A Sober Fun.—Why are Temperance Societies a bar to friendship? Because they prevent shaking hands!

POLICE COURT.

Qualifications of Lodgers.—At the Tremont House, the chief recommendation for accommodation is a stage-load of baggage, and the greater the inconvenience of receiving a lodger is, the more certainly is he of reception. All trades have their peculiar mysteries, and this is the mystery of public Hotels; and undoubtedly there is some reason for it, and heavy baggage is preferred by the host, upon a principle of "enlightened self-interest." In secondary establishments, a brass-mounted portmanteau and a valise will secure a bed; in a third rate, a broad-brim hat and travelling suitcase, with huge side pockets, will procure half a bed, in a room with eight; but a more liberal and Christian system prevails in Broad and Ann streets, as appears from the evidence given in the case of James Sweeney against Thomas Welch, charged with stealing a pocket book, containing $23 in bills and coins: viz:—

Witness—This man Welch—that man standing up on the other side yer honor, would be coming by, and putting forth for a lodging, and would have me recommend him; but I inclined not to do so, because he was manly dressed, and not well-looking in personal appearance, being in disabille, with an ould straw hat wid the rim off, and wid no jacket to spake up, and trowsers just hanging together on hem; and so I told hem we could not a-como-date hem; but the lady of the house asked what he wanted, and when I mentioned that I thought he did no look jest respectable, on account of his mane appearance, she stapped up to hem, and examined the buzzum of his shirt, and said it looked clane and tidy, and so told him, he might take a lodging in the bed with this good honest gentleman, who has lost all his hard earnings."

Welsh was not slow to avail himself of the advantage which his check shirt, "clane and tidy," secured him. "Towards morning," however, the witness observed that "Welsh was quite manly, and restless to get up, and be going;" and so up he got, off he went, and soon afterwards, Sweeney, his bed-fellow, discovered, that his pocket book, containing, as he said, "lower five dollar bills, and some selvur," was stolen. Suspicion, of course, fell upon the clean-shirted gentleman, "in disabille," who was not met with again till two days afterwards, having in the meantime removed from himself the reproach of being "manly dressed," and improved his "personal appearance," by enveloping his entire man in a new suit of sailor's blue, and a tarpaulin hat. This metamorphosis increased the suspicions against him, which were further strengthened, by his evading, and finally peremptorily declining an invitation to visit his former lodgings. The facts were considered strong enough to warrant his commitment for a jury trial—a result which made him "swear a prayer or two," at his honor, and say "it was too hard."

Stove-Dealers.—Charles Reynolds and John Carney were detected stealing the pieces of a new stove, from the shop door of Mr Dearborn, in School street. They had performed two trips before their operations were checked, but refused to give any information respecting their first two lifts. Reynolds said "I'm guilty and so is he." This plea did not suit Carney, who replied—"you may well enough say your guilty, and not lie, but why dont ye tell the truth, and say ye employed me to just help ye—you know you did hire me, didnt ye, Charles?"

Charles—I did no such thing, John—didnt you come to me and tell me the chance was a good one; you know very well I should never have thought of going openly to stole stoves.

John—Well that's too bad; but what can be expected of a man that will steal.

Charles—I wouldnt make a bad matter worse, by lying about it, John; but just trust to his honor's mercy. You know very well your guilty, and why dont ye own it like a man—what's the use of being ashamed of it.

John—You are being persecuted into a confession by the coaxing of his partner. He was therefore formally found guilty, and both, being old customers, were sent to the house of correction.

From the N. H. Gazette.

The present number completes the eightieth volume of the Gazette. Its publication was commenced in 1755, twenty years before the Revolution, and it is one of the oldest newspapers in New England, if not in the Union. From the period of its commencement up to the present time, it has been the warm and unflinching advocate of the rights of the people. Before the separation, it took an active part in their defence against the encroachments of those in power, and upon the receipt of the news of the affair at Lexington, it tore down the King's arms which had been placed at its head, and became one of the most energetic in declaring for independence. Throughout its long and eventful career, it has ever been constant to the cause of Democracy. In 1798, when the firmest hearts trembled, the Gazette quailed not—during the Embargo and the war, when foreign foes and domestic treason threatened to overthrow the government, the Gazette was found amongst the foremost in its defence;—and more recently, when the siren cry of amalgamation threatened to place the reins of government in the hands of the enemies of the Constitution, its warning voice was again raised in behalf of the people. It has lived to see all the different machinations of its political enemies overthrown, and whenever it has raised its battle-cry, victory has ultimately perched upon its standard. May it live a thousand years!

Murder.—By a letter received last evening from a gentleman in the country, we have received the details of a murder committed on Saturday last. Two men, at the village of Miami, Andrew Nugent and David Palmer, were engaged with several others in raffling for Turkeys, in which the above named two quarrelled. Nugent struck Palmer over the head with a hoop-pole, and broke his skull. He died on Sunday evening. Nugent had not been heard of at the date of the letter.—Cincinnati Rep.

Trial of the Schuylkill Rioters.—The Pennsylvania says—"Ten of the Schuylkill boatmen were tried on Wednesday at Reading, for conspiring together, and stopping all the boats on the Schuylkill Canal at Hamburg, in June and July last. The prosecutors recommended to the court not to fine or imprison them. The court agreed upon the recommendation, and passed the following sentence:—That the defendants pay a fine of 1 cent, pay the costs of prosecution, and stand committed until this sentence be complied with."

The Legislature of Georgia commenced its session on the 2d inst. Among the questions to be disposed of is the question relative to the establishment of a Supreme Court. An amendment of the Constitution for this purpose, has received the sanction of one legislature, and whether it is to be finally adopted, depend upon the Legislature now sitting.—Jour. Com.

A Capital Correspondent.—Williams, our Quartermaster, is an eccentric character. He is married, and constantly receives letters from his absent wife; these, however, he never opens, but keeps them all tied up. On his return, he says, she can read them to him all of a lamp.—Auldjo's Visit to Constantinople.

A Simile.—An old lady, not remarkable for the clearness of her ideas, describing a fine summer evening, said "It was a beautiful bright night—the moon made every thing as light as a feather!"

Young Underdunk, convicted of forgery, has been liberated under a pardon given by Governor Marcy, and went privately down on Long Island, on Friday last.—It is intended to send him to sea. Tibbets, who turns states evidence against him, is still in prison.

The bark Hortensia, from Rio de Janeiro, at Baltimore, reports that on the 31st October, when in lat 31, N and lon 71 W going N W with light winds from S S E a sail was discovered to S W close on the wind on the starboard tack; a few minutes after we discovered her to be a topsail schoer, without maintopmast, she bore down and set her square sail as if she wanted to speak us—at 8 A M she fired three guns; the vessel looking suspicious we continued our course—at 9 o'clock she fired another gun, and we showed our colors—at 10, being in our wake, she jib'd ship and stood direct for us, when we had no doubt she was a Pirate; we had no large guns, but prepared all our small arms, with the determination to sell our lives as dearly as possible. We resolved not to send our boat on board, nor permit her to board, intending to continue our course until she sunk us with her long guns. We made the lady and children (passengers) lay close on the cabin floor, it being out of the way of shot—at 11 A M she fired a round shot, which fell short, immediately afterwards she set foretop gallant sail and lower steering sail—at 2 P M being near us, she fired round shot and grape, the shot fell a long way ahead and the grape close under the counter; she kept nearing us and fired three guns in quick succession, the last gun being at 3 1-2 o'clock, when at a quarter of a mile distant, to all of which we paid no regard—at which moment we were struck with a heavy squall from W S W which took in all sail except foretop gallant sail and jib and kept off, running a Spanish Ensign up and down three times, and abandoned the chase. We carried all sail to the squall, with the lee cat-head under water, until we lost sight of the Pirate. She had a billet head, one yellow streak, and was full of men—commanded by a black Captain, whom we saw distinctly standing on the trunk using violent gestures with the spy glass held in his hand.

The Dublin Audience.—The visitors of the galleries in the Dublin, and, indeed, all the Irish theatres, differ in conduct from the natives of any other country. They single out individuals whom they know, in pit or boxes, and keep up a fire of interrogatories by no means pleasant, and not always decorous. On one occasion, a Mr C—, a wine merchant, about whom some delicate affairs were then murmured, was in the pit: a lad in the gallery began to inquire of Mr C—, "How's Mrs So-and-so, Mr C—?" Why wouldn't you bring her along wid you, Mr C—?" &c. &c. Mr C— bore this for some time with great good humor, but at length arose and said, "As the gentleman wishes to have a chat with me, will some of ye just throw him over to the pit, and then we shall be able to converse at our ease."—New Monthly Magazine.

A Colonel Poussin has published in Paris a work on the Internal Improvements projected or executed in the United States. It has created some sensation. The Foreign Quarterly Review gives some copious extracts from the work. It says, "The sole feeling we have towards Brother Jonathan's improvements is a sort of half-surprised, half-jealous uneasiness at their magnificence and extent."

NEW ENGLAND CROWN GLASS.—The New England Crown Glass Company have recently erected a new furnace and are manufacturing an excellent article. Their Crown Glass is thick, pure and of excellent color. Its thickness gives it an advantage over all thin glass, which is liable to crack from contraction in cold weather. Its surface not being polished after being blown, retains its natural brilliancy and hardness, and is not liable to the objection which applies to Plate Glass, of being easily and permanently bedimmed by dust.
The New England Crown Glass, being pure in color than any other glass, is preferable for Store windows, as it does not tinge the rays of light as they pass through it, and therefore white goods particularly appear to advantage, and it is peculiarly useful for Factories, as some minutes of light may be gained morning and evening, in consequence of the absence of color in this glass. The price of second quality is reduced from the rates heretofore asked.

Those who wish to contract for this Glass are requested to specify NEW ENGLAND CROWN GLASS. As much imposition has been practised by dealers in Glass, by deceptive marks on boxes and other artifices, any purchaser who may apprehend himself deceived by such means, is requested to apply to the subscriber for any information he may wish to enable him to detect the deception. Orders sent to the undersigned, at Boston or East Cambridge, or to any of the Company's Selling Agents, will be promptly attended to.
Persons wishing the signature of Selling Agent, can apply to the subscriber by letter or otherwise.

TO OWNERS OF TIMBER LAND ON THE ANDROSCOGGIN RIVER.—It has been ascertained by actual survey that there is a greater quantity of water discharged from the Androscoggin than from any river in Maine.
It is now in the highest state of improvement, and the New Hampshire River, and after flowing about 200 miles through a rich and fertile country discharges itself into Merry-meeting bay, between Topsham and Bath.
Upon the upper waters of this river, there is a large quantity of very superior timber, both pine and spruce, which is an incalculable source of wealth to its owners; but to increase its value and bring it safely and without delay to market after it is cut, it is important to make some improvements upon the river, such as building dams, side booms and clearing out bars. By a small capital the Androscoggin River can be made into one of the safest and most valuable rivers in the State for driving logs, as it is now one of the cheapest; and the price of timber be greatly enhanced.
Wherefore, all persons owning, or interested in, timber land upon this river, are invited to meet at the Cumberland House, in Portland, on Wednesday, the 15th day of November next, at 3 o'clock, P. M., for the purpose of taking this subject into consideration and acting thereon.
